The draft methodology is a comprehensive, focuses on 6 areas of issues and clear. It is well written, excellent references, glossary and overall description of what mean under each indicators is clear and excellent.

However, I believe that to some point indicators should be: 1). Specific (e.g. governance indicator: training on company's high level policies translated into the practices) and measurable (how many employees trained (ratio, percentage, numbers); 3) achievable;

If indicators can be clearly defined, it would be more beneficial and easy to understand by company's staff, and broader communities, including local impacted communities. I would say indicators for 6 main areas can be more specific, measurable and achievable at the implementation level.

These are my main comments / concern.
